DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES: Upon arrival at the theater, volunteers must check in with the House Manager. She or He can be found in the lobby of the Hopkins Center for the Arts and will then assign duties and conduct training as needed.

Volunteer ushering requires you to be on your feet and able to move up and down stairs. Some light lifting may be required. Volunteer Usher hours vary. Time commitment is usually 2 hrs per shift.

Two types of performances require two types of ushers.

1. SCHOOL MATINEE USHER – Priority for ushers for these performances is the efficient and orderly seating of school groups. Ushers must be proactive with these groups, actually entering the rows to assign specific seats to specific students, then moving to the next row. This is best accomplished by staying one row behind those students currently filing into seats, anticipating the end of a row, then identifying the first student to enter the next row. Some teachers may assist, some may be completely passive, so it is up to the usher to see that the job is accomplished quickly and efficiently. (Without actively seating these groups, students tend to saunter, be hesitant about sitting down, trade seats or argue about who is sitting where. This may result in holding the curtain or seating of groups after the play has begun.) At the end of the play, ushers assist with the orderly exit of groups, row-by-row.

2. EVENING/WEEKEND USHER POSITIONS

- a. Ticketer - This position is stationed at the main-floor or balcony entrance. The primary responsibility of this position is to confirm that all persons entering the theater have a ticket. Children two and under seated on their parents' lap are the only exception. This position will also tear tickets; the long portion of the stub is returned to the patron and the short portion should be pocketed for delivery to the house manager (this is our only way of doing an accurate house count).
- b. Program Distributor - The program distributor works alongside the Ticketer to ensure that all ticketed patrons are provided with a playbill for the performance.
- c. Seater – This position is responsible for directing Stages patrons to the correct seats. This means leading customers to their correct row and seats in most cases. In many other cases, it may simply mean verbal directions. This position is responsible for reporting any seating problems or discrepancies to the House Manager.
- d. Observer/Greeter – The Greeter will have a smile and a welcome for arriving audience members. Directions to will call and/or the theatre entrances will be a portion of the Greeter's task. During the performance, the observer's task is to remain visible and available to patrons. The observer generally stands near the wall on either side of the theatre near the back, in position to be spotted by customers who may need assistance. Observers always have a working flashlight in hand.

During the show: All volunteer ushers are expected to attend the performance for which they are scheduled to work. If not assigned as observers, while in the theater they are asked to assist latecomers with seating, report audience distractions to the House Manager, and assist observers as they address patron needs. Upon the performance's end the usher staff assists in clearing the theater and picking up refuse.

Post-show duties: After the audience has departed, ushers are expected to make a pass through the theater to pick up refuse, ruined programs, etc. Other post-show duties (as determined by the house manager) include distributing marketing items to exiting patrons and ensuring the line to meet the cast is forming in the correct location and in an orderly fashion.

EMERGENCY EVACUATION: If the Theater needs to be evacuated during a performance, volunteers are asked to assist patrons in exiting the theater. Patrons are directed to the parking lot behind the movie theater. Once the House is cleared, please go to the parking lot. It will then be determined if the performance will continue.

● BENEFITS: Every time you usher you receive a voucher good for TWO (2) tickets to a Mainstage performance, or ONE (1) ticket to a holiday show, or ONE (1) ticket to a JC Studio performance (excluding Theatre for the Very Young), with a limit of six tickets per household per production. Due to the unique nature of the production & limited capacity, vouchers will not be accepted for a Theatre for the Very Young performance. Volunteer Usher Vouchers expire one year after the performance ushered. Vouchers will be distributed by the house manager after each performance.
